Important Tips!

- Be sure to be visible by wearing a reflective vest or jacket or by wearing some (blinking)lights.
- Start your running session with a 10 to 15 minute of brisk walking and warm-up exercises.
- Finish your running session with brisk walking and cooling-down exercises.
- Try some surface variations by running in the forest or on sandy trails.
- The best running pace is a pace where you are able to tell a story or sing, if this is not possible anymore you are running to fast.
- Try not to keep up with faster runners but try to run your own pace.
- Keep hydrated! Take some sips even when the temperature is a little low.
- Plan a recovery day after every running day! Your muscles will appreciate it.
- Wear good running shoes and dress well to protect you against the sun or cold.
- Finally PLEASE LISTEN TO YOUR BODY! Stop running when feeling small aches, start cooling the painful spot and recover for 1 or 2 days.
